From SCIENCE AND SANITY by Alfred Korzysky p. 1x

It should be noticed that in a four dimensional world dating is only a particular temporal index by which we can deal effectively with time.

In non-Aristotelian orientations these extensional devices should be used eventually and permanently, with a slight motion of the hands to indicate absolute individuals, events, situations, etc. which change at different dates, also different orders of abstraction, etc... It may be added that all existing psychotherapy, no matter of what school, is based on the partial and particular extensionalization of a given patient, depending on the good luck and personal skill of the psychiatrist. Unfortunately these specialists are the main unaware of what said here, and of the existence of a theory of sanity which gives general, simple, and workable... methods for extensionalization...

I have no trouble finding points on which disagree with Korzysky. I don't believe in the four dimensional world outlook, treating time as if it were simply the equivalent of the horizontal, vertical, and depth dimensions. You can easily show me moving in the spatial dimensions; but just show me moving (or not moving!) in time. No, time just happens; it is things happening. Perhaps it would be more correctly conceived as a characteristic of "thingness," the existence. As far as I know and as far as I'm concerned, so-called "time travel" happens only in the imagination.
