OFF-TRACK and OUT-OF-CONTROL

I think in ids. The thoughts "off-track" and "out of control" just ran through my mind with the corresponding ids, as new spontaneous creations. Id creation happens automatically as part of the thinking/comprehension process, comprehension being in part a matter of making appropriate, fitting mental representations. If we can picture something in our minds appropriately, we understand it.

 I think of "anyway" as a matter of being sidetracked and then getting back to the main line of ~~the~~ thought: / branch → P → P (also off-track?) → anyway

The psychological phenomenon of having id-creation automatized and always there in my subconscious, where most (over 90% of) thinking occurs, is not, in my experience, trivial. I am a changed person because of it.
