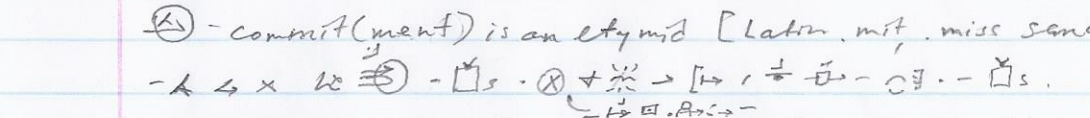
COMMITMENT + COMPROMISE, INTEGRITY

Since youth I have considered "commitment" a very important fundamental idea.

1ϕ. compromise / → ① a ; a ;

- commit(ment) / an

- commit(ment) is an etymid [Latin. mit, miss send]



The person or thing has penetrated the boundaries of something — gone in voluntarily — and freedom to leave is limited by the strength of the boundaries.

1ϕ. compromise / a ; a ,

One sense of "compromise" is a failure or fault of, a breaking of or blemish on, commitment.

INTEGRITY (— -ity — makes a noun, but I often don't bother!)

From Latin .in - not .tangere touch — untouched.

-d touch -c hand

The hand is up above the ⊙ whole and not touching it!

Integrity as a kind of wholeness and soundness — in the ⊙(whole) family.
